NEWSPAPER REPORTERS.

A Defense of Their Fair Mindedness, Reliability and Integrity.

A very common error is prevalent that the work of reporters, given in newspapers, as a rule is not entitled to respect or credence. It is generally assumed that the reporter writes chiefly or wholly to make a sensation or in some way interest readers without regard to facts, while just the reverse is the truth in all reputable newspaper establishments.

It is safe to assume that the statements of reporters given in the leading reputable journals of the country are quite as truthful as are the general statements from the pulpit when the minister gets outside of strictly religious teachings, and very much more truthful than are the public expressions of most if not all of the leading professions. With very few exceptions the management of our leading daily newspapers enforce truthfulness and fairness as the supreme attributes for a newspaper-writer, and yet it is common for all who are displeased with any reportorial statement to say that "it's a mere newspaper story."

It is true that there are a few conspicuous exceptions to the rule that governs the reputable newspapers of the country.

Not only are the managers of our leading newspapers entitled to great credit for the scrupulous care they enforce on their reporters and correspondents to present the truth with as exact fairness as is possible, but the public little know the ceaseless care that is exercised in every reputable newspaper office to prevent the publication of even the truth when it would be more harmful to publish than to suppress it. There is not a week, indeed hardly a day, that the newspapers of this city do not suppress the facts proper for public information which would make a most interesting story solely because it would bring a flood of sorrow to the innocent and helpless and cast an imperishable shadow upon their lives. With all the errors necessarily committed in a newspaper office by reason of the haste with which the articles must often be prepared, the public little know with what thorough integrity the newspapers, as a rule, protect the innocent even at the cost of suppressing legitimate and interesting information. The skeletons of hundreds of households are carefully guarded in the newspaper offices of the country, and generally without even the knowledge of the people who are thus protected.—Philadelphia Times.

SLEEP AND DREAMS.

How Agassiz Worked Out a Scientific Problem as Related by Himself.

The letters on sleep and dreams in The Spectator remind me of a case in the experience of Agassiz, and which he told me himself, though it is recorded in his work on the American fishes. He was studying a fossil fish in the Jardin des Plantes, but had never been able to determine the species to his satisfaction. After a time he dreamed that he caught the very fish and without difficulty determined the question, thinking, as he woke from the dream, that he would have no difficulty. But on returning to the fossil something in the dream had escaped him, and he could no more determine the species than before.

The next night he had the same dream and again forgot the essential point. He then determined to take a pencil and paper with him to bed and make his note as soon as he woke. The dream came the third time, but to his surprise on fully awakening he found the drawing made and lying on the table bed side, with three bones displayed in it which were not visible in the fossil, and which solved the problem. On returning to the Jardin des Plantes he obtained permission of his friend, the director, to chip away a scale of stone which lay on the spot where the bones were in the drawing, and found them there as his drawing had given them. It is 80 years since Agassiz told me the incident, but those who have access to his history of the North American fishes will be able to read it in his own words in the introduction and correct my version if my memory has in any detail failed me.—London Spectator.

The Same Old Story.

"Grandfather," said the young humorist, "can you spend the afternoon with me tomorrow?"

"I think so," replied the old man. "But what's the object?"

"You are no doubt aware," answered the young man, "that I occasionally write humorous articles for the newspapers."

"Yes, I know," said the old man, with a sigh, "and I have always hoped that you would some day see the error of your ways and reform. But what has that got to do with my spending the afternoon with you?"

"I received a letter from a magazine publisher this morning," replied the alleged funny man, "requesting me to contribute to the humorous department of his publication matter similar to that to which his readers have been accustomed, and in order that I may meet the requirements I want you to tell me some of the jokes current during your boyhood days."—Chicago News.

The Real Truth.

Some people deceive themselves with the notion that if they have been denied some advantage which another has had the only dignified course for them in life is to ridicule that advantage. "It is a strange thing to me to discover," said Mr. X. to Mr. Z., "that I have wanted a college education all my life, and never have known it until lately."

"What brought it to your knowledge at last?" asked Mr. Z., smiling.

"I perceived that there was a certain bitterness in the light way in which I always said, 'Well, as for me, I'm heartily glad that I didn't go to college.'"

The Trans-Mississippi and International Congress is composed of delegates from every State and Territory West of the Mississippi river. The idea of this exposition originated in that Congress at its session at Omaha in 1895, and the project has become a National enterprise and the National Commission has been organized and is in active service, there being one commissioner for each of the several departments of the Government. Most of the Trans-Mississippi States are well along in the way of gathering exhibits from their respective States and many of them have made liberal appropriations, while others are preparing exhibits through private enterprise.

Vice-President H. B. Maxson of Reno, has made arrangements whereby he can get Nevada exhibits, shipped from any point in the State along the line of the C. P. R. R., to Omaha and return, and he requests all persons who wish the interests of the State advanced, to co-operate with the Exposition County Commissioner of his county, whose name is shown above, and prepare some product of his county and send it to the nearest point on the C. P. R. R. from which place it will be sent to Omaha and exhibited, and returned to the same point at the close of the exposition, free of expense to the exhibitor. Full information should accompany everything sent for exhibition. Before sending anything to the line of the railroad a full description should be given. The Exposition Commissioner of the county, who in turn will notify the Vice-President, who will notify him what action to take, otherwise there might be many duplications. Apply to your County Representative for further information, and don't let this opportunity of advertising the resources of Nevada be lost.

Resolved, 'That the people of the island of Cuba are and of right ought to be free and independent.'

NEVADA WAR CLAIMS.

The Washington correspondent of the JOURNAL states that Representative Newlands has secured a favorable report in the House on the bill for the payment of Nevada war claims. The bill has been twice passed by the Senate, but on both occasions was defeated in the House. Now that Mr. Newlands has secured a favorable report on the bill in the House, it is probable that it will become a law.

The Nevada war claims date back to Territorial days. When the country was racked with strife in the great fratricidal war the Indians were on the warpath. The overland stage and telegraph lines between the Missouri river and California and the settlers in Nevada and parts of Utah had to be protected. For that purpose volunteers were organized in Nevada for service in the United States Army, as they are being organized to-day. As an incentive to young men to join the volunteers, the State paid each and every enlisted man five dollars in coin per month in addition to the thirteen dollars in greenbacks paid by the General Government. Officers were paid a proportionate amount in coin and the Territorial Government and its successor, the State Government, expended $117,500 in coin in that manner. Subsequently the State paid out several thousand dollars in coin in suppressing the White Pine and other Indian outbreaks and the total amount expended by the Territory and State, with interest up to the present time, exceeds $450,000. This is a just claim against the United States and the Senate Committee, which investigated it, so reported.

For reasons, probably known to themselves, but never explained to their readers, the gold papers of this State have made light of those war claims and attempted to ridicule our Senators and Representative for pressing their allowance by Congress. It is not likely that any of those Hanaized organs know anything about the claims, for if they did they could not dispute the fact that they are justly due the State. It would be a great relief to the taxpayers to have the debt paid at the present time, when in consequence of the abandonment of many silver producing mines, taxes for the support of the State and county governments are necessarily high. The Constitutional limit to the borrowing power of the State is virtually reached and as the State Prison, Insane Asylum and Orphans' Home must be maintained, the taxpayers must bear the expense. If the war claims are allowed by Congress, as they should be, the State can pay all its obligations and have a surplus of $150,000 left in the treasury to tide it over the depression that is certain to exist until silver is restored to its historic place as a money metal.

CONDENSED WAR NOTES.

At Madrid it is rumored that the Spanish fleet is off the coast of Cuba near Havana.

The transports City of Peking, City of Sydney and Australia are about ready at San Francisco for the reception of troops for Manila.

The Tenth Pennsylvania volunteers have started for San Francisco on their way to Manila. The members come from the towns of western Pennsylvania.

Secretary Long said yesterday that he had received no advices as to the location of the Spanish fleet and no information that a naval battle was imminent.

A report from Getson Cove, N. S., says that nine war ships were sighted off Indian Island near Cape La Have, yesterday morning bound in a southerly direction.

Major General Joseph Wheeler has made a personal request of President McKinley that he be permitted to call for a regiment of volunteer cavalry from Alabama.

The Spanish newspapers are complaining bitterly at Great Britain's position in the present trouble and say that they cannot understand why American warships are allowed to re-visit at English ports and that the United States is allowed to out British cables.

It is announced that the German war ship Geir has arrived at Havana and it is said, did not return the salute of the American squadron nor did she salute the American flag. She saluted the Spanish forts and her commander visited General Blanco.

The war fever is decidedly abating in Spain. Not a single public man inspires a particle of confidence and the tinkering with the Ministry is viewed with despairing indifference. The circumstances generally indicate that Spain is drifting toward peace proposals.

Information has reached the State Department that German gunners have been assigned to the Spanish fleet on sailing at Oatiz. Herr Von Hoesleben, the German Ambassador at Washington, would neither affirm nor deny the report. The State Department will interrogate him.

President McKinley is of the opinion that the United States will now be compelled to occupy the Philippines for a long time if not permanently, whether the Government wants the islands or not, and in order to maintain this policy it is proposed to send 10,000 volunteers to Hawaii to be held there in reserve.

Although nothing official has been given out, it is believed that a naval engagement will occur within twenty-four hours. The reported bombardment of Santiago de Cuba is probably true. There are three cables there and they are British property, but they will be cut in order to prevent General Blanco from communicating with Madrid.

John Fitzgerald of the Palace is an accommodating and genial host and his assistants, Louis Bevier and Horace Churchill, are equally attentive to guests. A splendid French restaurant is connected with the house.

Things That Annoy the Sick.

Nothing is gained and much time that is very valuable is wasted by allowing ourselves to become nervous and unable to be of the slightest use in the sickroom.

Although we may consider a person too ill to be aware of what is taking place about him, he is sometimes fully cognizant of the merest trifles and always more or less susceptible to any and all things going on. For that reason conversation about the condition of the patient carried on in whispers or in any mysterious manner should be avoided and an air of quiet cheerfulness always maintained.

Nothing is so annoying as to be continually asked if we do not wish the pillows changed, the bedclothes straightened, the blinds closed or opened, some nourishment brought, or any small details attended to. Better by far to see for oneself and do quietly without disturbing the patient. Particularly if he is disposed to sleep do not at once get a newspaper of the kind that has the greatest possible amount of rattle in it and seat yourself in a rocking chair regardless of the possible effect it may have upon the nervous condition of your friend.

When it is time for nourishment or medicine, be prompt to give it, but always without talking over it too much, and if it is the bitter cup that is to be prescribed have something agreeable to follow and a cheery word. If it is the food or broth, have it prepared outside the sickroom and brought quietly, and, above all, in an attractive form, bearing in mind that a little, daintily presented, will be much more acceptable and partaken of with more benefit than a larger quantity.—New York Ledger.

Daft Tam, as he was called, wandering through the village one day, got severely bitten by the village inn dog.

Proceeding to the inn, he showed the mistress what her "dawg" had done. She was much alarmed and, putting a half crown into Tam's hand, said:

"Awa tae the doctor, noo, an pay him wi' the half crown."

Tam eyed the coin, saying:

"I dinna think I'll bother wi' the doctor, but jist keep the siller."

"For my sake, gang tae him, or else ye'll gang daft."

"Hoots, wumman, ye're bletherin Daft folk canna gang daft twice."

Archbishop Temple.

Speaking of Archbishop Temple in the Lambeth conference, The St. James Gazette says: "It is well known that the utmost good feeling and unanimity prevailed at that historic gathering, but it is not perhaps surprising that some of the exotic prelates were at first a little astonished at the blunt, plain spoken straightforwardness of the archbishop. No doubt sometimes their lordships were told exactly what they had to do and how they were to do it with an absence of circumlocution which was entirely new to them, and one of the American bishops summed up his feelings upon the perhaps rather more than military decision of the present successor of St. Augustine in a highly successful epigram. 'I love that old man,' he said, with the characteristic Yankee drawl which even bishops upon the other side of the Atlantic rarely quite lose, 'but if he behaved like that in my country he would be shot.'"

MRS. THOMAS CARLYLE.

One Occasion When the Clever Woman Was Surprised and Confounded.

The brightest time for Mrs. Carlyle's talk was during dinner. Day after day she poured forth witty stories, most of which I have almost forgotten, but in any case it would be desecration to attempt to repeat almost any of them.
The characteristics of living men and women were often dashed off in a few pithy words, not without satirical touches. George Henry Lewes was not one of her favorites, but I noted with pleasure the way in which she spoke of the wonderful transformation effected by the influence on him of George Eliot.

One of her experiences was when visiting a shoemaker's shop to make a purchase, at the time when sandaled shoes were worn, like those represented in the original illustrations of Dickens.
The sandals were of black ribbon, one until the shoes were worn by the purchaser at home. Mrs. Carlyle tried on many shoes, and each time that a shoe proved unsuitable she unconsciously slung it on to her left arm. Being at last suited, and having paid her bill, she left the shop, and had walked a little way when she heard a shout behind her. Looking back she saw the shop-man running after her, much excited and insisting on her returning the stolen shoes. Looking down, she saw to her surprise a number of shoes dangling from her arm. The man indignantly asked her name and address. Her astonishment was such that her name was obliterated for a time from her memory and all she could recollect was her maiden name, "Miss Welsh." The humor in this tale was enhanced to those who knew her from its being so much out of keeping with her usual shrewdness and self-possession that no one could have predicted it of her.

Her death scene, a year later, when "Mr. Silvester," as she named her coachman, during a drive, turned and looked into the carriage—surprised at receiving no orders as to route—and saw her sitting, lifeless, with a pet dog on her knee, has often risen to my thoughts.

My strongest impression was of the deep mutual love evidently existing between Mrs. Carlyle and her husband.
Every subject we discussed seemed to recall thoughts of him. If the piano were opened, his song of the "blue day" was referred to or asked for; if any literary man were mentioned, his opinion of him was given, or a story was told showing his relation to other men of note. I felt as if listening to the love talk of a youthful engaged couple, and when, in later days, Froide opened up a floodgate of misunderstanding I felt assured there was a radical misconception of the true state of affairs.—New York Independent.

USE NO LATHER.

Chinese Shave Frequently With a Wet Towel to Soften the Face.

Considering that the inhabitants of the middle kingdom use the razor more than any other nation in the world, it is passing strange that they never discovered the advantages of lathering first, says the Windsor Magazine. Dabbing a warm wet cloth on the chin or the scalp is a poor substitute for soap. Hair cutting, as we practice it in the west, is to them "all unknown," except in a few localities where foreigners are numerous. A traveler when in the province of Kwantung sent for a man to shave his locks, and he began nibbling away at his scalp without troubling about such a trifling as a comb. At the third snip the man stopped him and asked him if he had ever cut a foreign-er's hair before. Oh, yes. When was that? Oh, last year, when he cut the hair of a German customs officer who had died.

But in the matter of shaving there are few more dextrous—considering the latherless way he does it and the fact that he uses a little three cornered soft iron knife as a razor—than the Chinese figaro. Was not the chief of all his tribe enabled by an emperor ages back for dexterously cleaving a mosquito that had settled on the imperial nose? One advantage gained by patronizing the Chinese barber—in the case of Europeans—is he doesn't mind coming to your room every morning and shaving you before you wash and dress. But the native also generally waits to be rasped before washing, even if he has to wait a week.

Very Tall Enceiling.

One of the officers of the rebellion had a private in his company whom the boys jestingly named "Little Mack," because of his bigness. He was the tallest man in the company—about 6 feet 3 inches—and one of the bravest in the regiment.

On one occasion when the men were ordered to kneel down behind a stone fence in preparation for an expected assault the officer, who was preparing a surprise for the enemy, on inspecting the line was astonished to see one large, serene face above the top of the fence.
He shouted out angrily, "There, you—you man with the head up, kneel down, sir!" The man did not move, and again the officer thundered, "Why don't you kneel down, sir?"

Oblivious to any danger and blind to the significance of his head being exposed, "Little Mack" answered, "I am kneeling down."

"Then," shouted the officer, "put your head down, or you will have it shot off, confound you!"

Thereupon "Little Mack" curled down behind the fence, grieving because the captain had howled at him.—Chicago Inter Ocean.

He Was Actually Clean!

Colonel Ibbotson, who died recently in England, was a capital whist player and an insatiable reader. In the interval between games he invariably plunged into a book, never indulging in futile discussions about the plays. He was the hero of the last sensational elopement to Gretna Green. Forty-four years ago he ran off with the Lady Adela Villiers, daughter of the Earl of Jersey. They were never fully pardoned, as it was thought that she had been guilty of a grave misalliance. Indeed the story is told that when they got back to town Lady Adela was reported to have exclaimed to her sister, "I had no idea till I married that the lower orders were so clean in their habits."

Honore Greeley's Eccentric Ideas.

Even his eccentric ideas were made plausible by his treatment. I heard him say once that what was then thought to be the Great American desert ought to be planted with Canada thistles so as to give nature some sort of a green start, when other vegetation might be made to follow. But the trouble is Canada thistles, like any other thing inspired by "pure cussedness," will only grow and thrive where they ought not to.
Find a place where their presence would do some good, and, as in the Humpty Dumpty case, "all the king's horses and all the king's men" could not fasten them there. This perverseness suggests in a certain way the small boys' conception of good and bad—his enobility of nature and life.

"What's fun," he said, "is always wrong; what we don't want to do is pious."

Mr. Greeley would cut down his alders in the spring. When I mildly suggested to him that our agricultural authorities preferred the autumn for that work, when nature could not so well aid their struggle for existence, he thought this reason was a mere excuse for not cutting them at all.—Joel Benton in Harper's Magazine.

A Bright Bird.

The cuckoo is as likely to steal its nest as to make it, but this fact does not take from the point of the following pun, quoted from Short Stories:

A young Englishman being asked at dinner whether he would have some bird's nest pudding, said, turning to his hostess, "Ah, yea, bird's nest pudding, and what kind of a bird may have made it?"

"Oh, it was the cuckoo who made it," was her prompt reply.
